

Broadcast Messaging Service

What it does:

CallNotice can quickly generate a high volume of telephone calls, email, and SMS Text message notifications containing your message to specific lists that you provide. Voice messages can be played using any of three options including using our professional studio voices, record your own message via the telephone, or enter text that will be converted to speech when it plays.

If an answering machine or voice mail is detected it will leave a message, and will try up to 3 times if busy or if no answer.

Who uses Broadcast Messaging Service?

Businesses, organizations, schools, universities, students, parents, team sports, volunteer groups, fund raisers, social clubs, and political organizations all can benefit from Broadcast Messaging.

Business organizations use Broadcast Messaging as part of disaster recovery plan or to get pertinent information out quickly. Email messages and cellular SMS Text messages can be combined with the Voice telephone call for thorough notification.

CallNotice Broadcast Messaging can also alert members of upcoming events assuring improved attendance, and advise of last minute changes or cancellations.

Schools use Broadcast Messaging to quickly contact faculty, parents, and students. Additionally, it can keep families informed of school events, try-outs, absences, and deadlines.

Universities can quickly send out urgent security alerts contacting all students and faculty if needed. Broadcast Messaging is also used to keep the numerous groups, clubs, activities volunteers and organizations on campus current on events.

Government entities, including cities and towns, use the Broadcast Messaging Service to alert the population of extreme impending weather, closures, events, or utility outages.

How it works:

You can upload your list of phone numbers to be called and record the message you want delivered all through the www.callnotice.com web site. Check it out now! There is a one time setup fee and charges are billed monthly based on the number of calls made that month.
